

Peek at the Week

Mrs. Yonce

April 19-23, 2010

Here is a peek at our week! Hope your week went well!

In Language Arts, we read a story called New Shoes for Silvia. The children were introduced to the sound of -ar. We made a chart full of -ar words. We also practiced -oo words and worked on the long a and i sounds. We talked about fantasy and reality. We worked on adding -ing to the end of words. We were able to fit Reading A-Z in this week. Their books are coming home to be read over the weekend.

In Math, we are finished the chapter on measurement and started our new chapter. This chapter deals with addition and subtraction again. It is more in depth and teaches new strategies. The kids are doing great on their rocket math. I am so proud of how hard they try and the progress they have made.

In Religion, we worked on our promise magazines. The children learned what it was like for the disciples when they heard and saw that Jesus had returned. We did some role playing and even shared a celebration snack together after making celebration cups. What fun! We learned about St. George and talked about his life. His feast day is April 23rd.

In Social Studies, we are working in our map skills booklets and still collecting post cards!!

A couple more things.....

Try to help your child remember snacks on Thursday. They are getting hungry on these hot lunch days!

Please pray for our 2nd graders as they make their First Holy Communion tomorrow.

Hope you're all underway with your science fair project. Remember to stop by on Thursday from 11:15-12 to view the fair. I think it would be easiest if you took your child's project with you when you leave on Thursday. I imagine some of them may be a bit big for your child to carry!

Hope you all have a blessed weekend.

God Bless,
Mrs. Yonce
